WELCOME

Dear Friends,

When was the last time you took a stroll around the Most Beautiful Town Square in Texas? If your answer isn't "recently," I must encourage you to come visit our home sweet home. You'll notice that Georgetown is not the sleepy town of yesterday. It has grown into a city with a lively Cultural District (so designated by the Texas Commission on the Arts). This evolution has been something we as a community started together and have worked year after year to foster. From Southwestern University's well-regarded Sarofim School of Fine Arts to the historic Georgetown Palace Theatre to the newly opened Georgetown Art Center, the city boasts a variety of people bringing live music to the stage, history to the next generation, and art to the streets.

Thanks to those organizations and The Williamson Museum, the Georgetown Heritage Society, Georgetown Symphony Society, the annual Festival of the Arts, and the Georgetown Public Library, Georgetown is rich in artistic and cultural inspiration. The shops and galleries that line our streets, the varied local groups and clubs working to bring art to life, and the participation of our residents and visitors help to foster a community where arts, culture and heritage matter. So the next time you are looking for a place to visit for a night or settle down for life, take a walk around and you'll find that we are anything but square.

I hope to see you soon.

Dale Ross
Mayor, City of Georgetown

CULTURAL DISTRICT

Ten years ago, the Texas legislature authorized the Texas Commission on the Arts to designate Cultural Districts—special arts zones—in cities where intentional arts-related development is occurring. Georgetown’s Cultural District was approved by the commission in 2013. It is one of only 26 such districts across the state, lending a level of distinction and recognition to our arts community that we are very proud of.

We are also distinctive in that Georgetown is the second-fastest growing city in the country, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. Our cultural arts sector is blooming as a result of that population growth. Arts and culture organizers in town bring the architecture and history of our area to life, curate thought-provoking exhibits and events, create magical theatre experiences, and organize concerts that transport the listener.

Georgetown’s Cultural District overlaps our historic downtown Square and its many wonderful restaurants, wineries, galleries, and much more. It is the locus for dedicated arts and culture organizers: the people who are the roots of our vibrant arts community.

Take advantage of the opportunities here, and visit our Cultural District anchors: the Georgetown Art Center, the Georgetown Palace Theatre, The Williamson Museum, the Georgetown Public Library, and Grace Heritage Center. Attend the concert season hosted by Georgetown Symphony Society and come to our annual Festival of the Arts. Be sure not to miss Southwestern University’s Sarofim School of Fine Arts for outstanding theatre, concerts, and art exhibits.

GEORGETOWN PALACE THEATRE

810 S. Austin Avenue
512.869.SHOW (7469)
georgetownpalace.com

The Georgetown Palace Theatre is a model among successful community theatres. The staff are dedicated to providing quality and affordable entertainment and educational opportunities in the performing arts. The Palace is home to a year-round season of frequently sold-out live theatre productions. The quality of the acting, directing, and production values of past shows has earned consistently impressive reviews.

The Palace's 2015-2016 season will include eight full productions. In addition to the main stage lineup, the theatre has put together exciting additional events: fun-filled dinner theatre, cabaret nights, and non-musical plays that are sure to entertain.

History matters in Georgetown, and the Palace has held a place in the city's heart since 1926. Built in the downtown Square, it opened originally to show silent films. The theatre is the only Art Deco period building in Georgetown, and the marquee is original to the theatre. The former movie house was renovated and in 2001 opened as a live theatre venue; the Palace now offers an exceptional theatrical experience for theatre-goers.

The Palace's education program draws students from across Central Texas; it offers classes, workshops, and training programs for aspiring actors, dancers, and singers from four years old to adults. The Palace education program is staffed by a star studded cast of teaching artists with a wide range of experiences and qualifications, including education at Juilliard, Middlebury College, Trinity University, and the University of Texas, and work experience from high school drama departments to Central Texas theatres to Broadway.

Children receive an experience like no other that introduces beginning theatre concepts and encourages self-confidence, cognitive skills, and gross motor skill development. The Palace also offers classes for children with special needs. Youth and teens benefit from workshops on the fundamentals of acting, improvisation, and musical theatre. They learn to work as a team, solve problems together, and develop active listening skills.

The Georgetown Palace Theatre puts on quite a show,

SAROFIM SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS

Southwestern University's Sarofim School of Fine Arts (SSFA) has a lot to offer Georgetown's visiting and resident arts aficionados. The university supports world-class programs in art and art history, music, and theatre. The SSFA is housed in the Alma Thomas Theater. The three-story Fine Arts Center contains the Fine Arts Gallery as well as two theatres: the concert and performance venue the Alma Thomas Theater, and the intimate Jones Theater.

Art exhibitions on campus are remarkable. Throughout the academic year, the Fine Arts Gallery presents art exhibitions by nationally and internationally exhibited artists as part of the nationally ranked program offered by the Art and Art History Department. In addition, each year there are several student exhibitions. Regular visiting artist presentations and lectures by art historians are free and open to the public, as are artist receptions, gallery talks, and other special events.

Concerts on campus are wonderful, and attending them is easy, with convenient parking on campus. Dedicated to providing a robust and rigorous approach to the field of musical study and performance, the university's Music Department offers a variety of concerts and recitals by students, faculty, and guest performers throughout the academic year. These performances are all open to the public. Southwestern University attracts strong and dedicated students, and the university's music majors continue to be accepted into top music graduate programs.

Plays and musicals on campus are excellent, supported behind the scenes by fine technical facilities.

The university's Theatre Department offers a range of performances each year that are open to the public for a moderate admission charge. There are always four mainstage productions, including one musical theatre production. The 2015-16 mainstage season includes The Fantasticks, The Importance of Being Earnest, A Night of Tennessee Williams, and Dead Man Walking. In addition, students produce their own performance projects throughout the academic year in the department's Blackbox series.

The SSFA offerings at Southwestern are at the core of arts and culture in Georgetown. Whether your interest is art, music, or theatre, there will be something on this beautiful liberal arts college campus for you.

GEORGETOWN PUBLIC LIBRARY

402 W. 8th Street
512.930.3551
library.georgetown.org

The Georgetown Public Library is a center for arts and culture in Georgetown, with offerings in art, music, history, architecture, and more.

Artists exhibit their work in the second floor gallery space, and local art organizations meet in the library's meeting rooms. The library hosts the annual Texas Society of Sculptors summer show and serves as an Art Hop location each fall. In addition to paintings, photographs, drawings, prints, and sculptures inside the building, sculpture exhibits are found outside the building, too.

The Live Music at the Library series brings monthly concerts to the first-floor lobby, and music can be heard throughout the building. Musical genres span a wide range: classical, bluegrass, jazz, folk, country, Latin, pop, and world music. The concerts transform the library into a concert venue with books—and sometimes dancing, too. No tickets or reservations are required; visitors just come have a seat and enjoy the music. The Live Music in the Library series is a gift of the Friends of the Georgetown Public Library. The Friends group also runs the library's used book store, Second-Hand Prose.

The Georgetown Public Library's dedicated staff members create a community experience that extends beyond the traditional, but the library collection does include over 110,000 printed books, e-books, digital and printed magazines and newspapers, CD's, DVD's, and more...the library even checks out bicycles and cake pans! There are also select historical records relating to local architecture, history, and genealogy, and reference services to help patrons find what they need.

The lively children's room has a wide variety of books and plenty of open floor space for storytime. The librarians pack the calendar with educational and entertaining programming for children of all ages. The first floor also offers a teen spot with video games, books, media, and comfy places to chill out.

One favorite library gathering place for people of all ages is the Red Poppy Coffee Co., a great place for a healthy lunch or a friendly conversation. The library offers plenty of study tables and free wi-fi, meeting space, public computers, and for those who can't make it to the library there is the WOW!mobile, a bookmobile that brings library adult and children's material out into the community.

WILLIAMSON MUSEUM

716 S. Austin Avenue
512.943.1670
williamsonmuseum.org

The rich story of this part of Central Texas is told by The Williamson Museum, and a visit to the museum begins outside on the sidewalk with the life-sized bronze of Robert McAlpin Williamson, or "Three-Legged Willie." History lovers and families will enjoy a stop at the museum, which preserves the unique stories of Williamson County for present and future generations and promotes the culture and heritage of the county through education, preservation, acquisition and exhibition. The insightful exhibits and artifacts offer and interpret first-hand historical information and provide a fascinating glimpse into the local past. The museum educates, entertains, and enlightens residents and visitors alike.

The museum, established in 1997, features interactive exhibits to engage visitors of all ages, and monthly history-related programs open to the public including The Salon, Hands on History, and First Friday offerings. Tours of the 1911 historic Williamson County Courthouse are offered weekly and tell the story of the county's diverse past. Educational opportunities for families, teachers, and schools include the Hands on History and Traveling Trunk programs, tours, field trips, a Summer History Explorers Camp, special events, interactive primary sources through "WWII Comes to Williamson County."

The museum also hosts annual special events including an annual Cattleman's Ball and a Civil War Ball, and the Chisolm Trail Day event in San Gabriel Park. At Chisolm Trail Day, kids young and old can get up close and personal with a Texas hero and learn about the great cattle drives of the late 1800's. This half-day event features historical re-enactments, real cooking chuck wagons, live music, interactive stations, and culminates with a real cattle drive down a portion of the original Chisolm Trail. These are a fraction of the lively events that the museum organizes to bring history to life. Stop in and explore Georgetown's long and storied history.

FESTIVAL OF THE ARTS

P.O. Box 846
512.639.0433
gtownfestival.org

Georgetown Festival of the Arts, now in its twelfth year, presents an exciting annual event that includes multiple concerts, lectures, a film related to the festival's theme, a performance in San Gabriel Park by high school musicians followed by fireworks, and a final concert featuring a large choral work performed by the San Gabriel Chorale. "Fire and Ice: A Festival of Music by Grieg, Sibelius, Nielsen and other Nordic Masters," will take place June 1-5, 2016. Locations include Southwestern University, the Palace Theatre, and City Lights Theatre. Frequently there is a related concert for children at the Georgetown Public Library, as well.

In addition to the festival itself, the Georgetown Festival of the Arts sponsors, along with the Round Rock Symphony, a series of three intimate Classic Chamber Concerts throughout the year.

GEORGETOWN SYMPHONY SOCIETY

512.864.9591
gsstx.org

Georgetown Symphony Society is in its sixteenth season of bringing outstanding classical concerts to town.

This year they present guest soloists performing works by Mozart, Bach, and Strauss. The season will include four concerts by the Temple Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Thomas Fairlie, and two by the Round Rock Symphony, conducted by Stefan Sanders. The annual Van Cliburn Concert features Nikita Mndoyants, pictured above, a finalist in the 2013 International Piano Competition.

Again this season the wonderful Vivace Youth Orchestras will perform under the direction of JD Janda and Mary Powers, and the society will offer a Musical Enrichment program with semiannual concerts to let children learn a little about what makes music wonderful.

GEORGETOWN HERITAGE SOCIETY

512.869.8597
georgetownheritagesociety.org

The Georgetown Heritage Society's mission is to preserve and promote interest in Georgetown's heritage—its historic buildings and sites and the people associated with them, as well as the documents, pictures, and other records relating to them. Its home base is the City-owned Grace Heritage Center, which is an example of a community preserving its architectural landmarks for adaptive re-use. The circa 1881 Carpenter Gothic chapel offers a distinctively gracious venue for weddings, meetings and special events, and is open to the public.

Today the society works to fulfill its mission in a variety of ways; they organize an annual Holiday Home Tour, featuring historic homes decorated for the holidays. Proceeds from the tour support other society initiatives including new Preservation Fund program, informative programs and educational publications. The charge of the Society continues to expand to meet responsibly the growth and needs of the community – ever mindful of preserving the past for future generations.

GROUPS

CENTRAL TEXAS PASTEL SOCIETY

centexpastel.com

► Promotes soft pastels as a fine-art medium. Members include all experience levels from professionals to students and represent a variety of styles from realism to abstract. They educate the public about pastels through shows and exhibitions and organize workshops, programs, painting sessions and informal critiques.

SUN CITY TEXAS ARTS & CULTURE CLUBS

sctexas.org

► Georgetown's creative life is enlivened by members of Sun City's Visual Arts Club, Photography Club, Actors & Theatre Arts Guild, Creative Clay & China Club, Fabric & Fiber Club, Singers Club, and Stained Glass Club.

TEXAS SOCIETY OF SCULPTORS

tsos.org

► A guild based in Central Texas. Objectives of the society include educating the public about sculpture, promoting the work of sculptors, collaborating with organizations and galleries, and serving as a liaison between sculptors for exhibitions and commission opportunities in Texas.

WATERLOO WATERCOLOR GROUP

waterloowatercolor.org

► Dedicated to advancing the practice and appreciation of water media painting through workshops, demonstrations, exhibitions and other educational programs. All workshop teachers offer a free demo on the Sunday before each workshop that is open to the public.

WILLIAMSON COUNTY ART GUILD

wcartguild.org

► Mission is to stimulate interest in art through art exhibits, artists programs, scholarships, and workshops. They exhibit members' work in several Georgetown locations and the public is invited to their monthly meetings, which feature a guest artist and the sharing of members' work.

WILLIAMSON COUNTY SYMPHONY SOCIETY

wilcosymphony.org

► Founded to provide the amateur musician an opportunity to perform in a professional concert environment. The orchestra performs in varied locations throughout the county, providing music for concertgoers of all ages. One concert per year is offered in Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN ART CENTER

816 S. Main Street
512.930.2583

georgetownartcentertx.org

The Georgetown Art Center is emerging as a centerpiece of arts and culture in Georgetown and drawing attention from across the state. Each year, more than 100 different artists and more than 200 pieces are exhibited at the center, which welcomes almost 3,000 visitors each month.

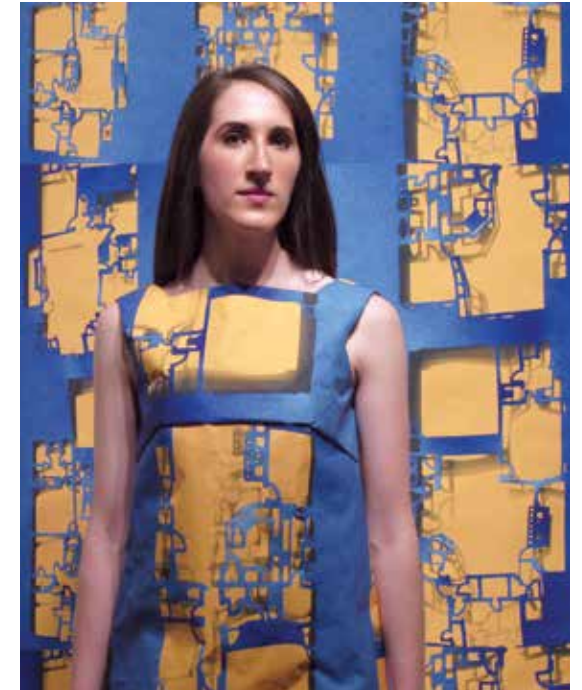

The center's second exhibit season was extremely successful, and it is focused on maintaining and raising the quality bar. To that end, a busy and creative 2015-2016 season is up and running, with nine new curated exhibits and a changing mix of mediums, artists, and styles supported by complementary events.

Every exhibit includes an Artist Reception that is free to the public. These evening events are an opportunity to view the exhibit and talk to the artists and other arts supporters. The center also organizes ticketed evening events for more intimate conversations.

Education is an important focus of the center, which has an attached studio. Artist talks, a Visiting Artist Workshop Series, special topic workshops for children, open studio sessions, and lectures foster art skills and abilities in the community. The art center has a partnership with Cordovan Art School, which manages weekly skill building art classes and children's Summer Camp, and a community outreach program benefits local children and offers scholarships for summer camp, classes, and workshops.

The art center is housed in a historic building just off the downtown Square. The 2013 renovation of Georgetown's 123-year-old Firehouse Number 1 transformed it into the award-winning Georgetown Art Center. The building is owned by the City of Georgetown, and the art center is run by a nonprofit board, Georgetown Art Works. The center is staffed by dedicated volunteers who work 10,000 volunteer hours annually. The center is financially supported by membership fees, grants, and donations.

Thought-provoking exhibits and access to artists and art education are the foundation of the Georgetown Art Center, where residents and visitors experience and engage with art.

ART CENTER EXHIBITS

2015-2016 Calendar

The Georgetown Art Center is about to embark on its third year. Last year, the center received about 80 proposals for solo and group shows. Those proposals formed the basis of an intentionally eclectic and exciting exhibit calendar with broad appeal; the exhibits were very well attended. The level of interest and enthusiasm for the arts in Georgetown is remarkable.

This year's exhibits kick off with the annual Art Hop, which in its earlier years acted as the precursor to the art center. Before there was a physical building, dedicated artists, organizers, and City staff held the Art Hop throughout businesses around the downtown Square in Georgetown. The idea was to make art part of the everyday lives of residents, and show the community how art adds to quality of life. What started pretty small has grown to include artists from 57 cities across Texas and led the way to making the Georgetown Art Center a reality. In the upcoming year, the art center will have the honor of hosting scores of artists as part of a brand new slate of exciting solo and group exhibits.

2015 ART HOP

10/2/2015 - 10/30/2015

ARTIST RECEPTION

10/4/2015 • Sunday | 2 PM

Georgetown Art Center and Georgetown Public Library

► Now in its eighth year, the Art Hop is a statewide arts competition that celebrates Texas artists. The categories include 2D Abstract, 2D Representational, 3D, Photography, and Printmaking. The 2015 Art Hop Judge Panel includes Fidencio Duran, Claude Van Lingen, Jason Makepeace, Donna De Cesare, and Lynwood Kreneck.

MESSENGERS BY PETER MANGAN

11/1/2015 - 3/31/2016

ARTIST RECEPTION & ARTIST TALK

11/8/2015 • Sunday | 2 PM

Outside the Georgetown Art Center

► "It all comes down to the figure," an artist friend said to Peter Mangan years ago. Each generation of artists addresses this question; Mangan's approach is to start with the silhouette. Transparent fragments combine with durable metals to create sculptures that symbolize the people of today.

SMALL WORKS - 12"X12"X12"

11/6/2015 - 12/6/2015

ARTIST RECEPTION

11/14/2015 • Saturday | 7 PM

► Sixty artists, including Alejandra Almuella, Hollis Hammonds, James Tisdale, and Sidney Yeager. Works are all 12" x 12" x 12" or smaller in size. These are creative works that are more accessible in price and are perfect for gift giving in the holiday season.

ABOVE OUR HEADS

DAVIS CHAPMAN LINDSAY

12/11/2015 - 1/24/2016

ARTIST RECEPTION

12/12/2015 • Saturday | 7 PM

► The focus of the exhibit will be above eye level. David Chapman Lindsay perceives his work as illustrating individual potential and the beauty of individual tragedy as defined through literal and metaphysical systems. His work comes from the traditions of figurative painting, minimalist forms, church spaces, and a strong interest in how space can be used as a metaphor for broad community and individual psychology.

LITTLE BOXES: ARTWORK BASED #### ON MALVINA REYNOLDS' SONG

1/29/2016 - 2/28/2016

ARTIST RECEPTION

1/30/2016 • Friday | 7 PM

► Various artists including NJ Weaver, Catherine Small, and Sang-Mi Yoo. "Little Boxes" is a protest song composed by Malvina Reynolds in 1962; it became a hit for her friend Pete Seeger in 1963. The song is a political satire about the development of suburbia and conformist middle-class attitudes. This is an open exhibit. For more information about our call for entries, please visit georgetownartcentertx.org. Deadline for submission is December 10, 2015.

BOTANICALS

3/4/2016 - 4/10/2016

ARTIST RECEPTION

3/5/2016 • Saturday | 7 PM

► Various artists including Jill Bedgood, Janet Brooks, Belinda Casey, Emily Eaton, Vie Dunn-Harr, Elizabeth Elequin, Valerie Fowler, Annie O'Brien Gonzales, Robyn Jorde, Ysabel Lemay, Marie Leterme, Deborah Mersky, Katie Musolff, Sue Sill, and Jill Trasher. This exhibit embraces the world of botanicals as the subject of art, from traditional botanical illustration to more contemporary interpretations of botanical forms.

Tropical Parlor by Vie Dunn-Harr | Oil on Canvas
Vie Dunn-Harr is one of the 15 artists participating in the Botanicals Exhibit.

VISITING ARTISTS WORKSHOP SERIES

There are many opportunities to learn at the Art Center throughout the year. The following four workshops bring the opportunity to learn from some of the exhibit artists, past and present. More information about each workshop is available on the Art Center website.

WORKING COLOR: THE ART OF HENRY ISAACS

4/15/2016 - 5/29/2016

ARTIST RECEPTION

4/16/2016 Saturday | 7 PM

► This exhibit will include 40 recent paintings, primarily based on landscape. It includes works in various stages as well as finished works, in order to demonstrate the ways color builds and informs a finished painting. Henry Isaacs has painted plein air landscapes in Europe, Africa, and regions of the U.S. for many years, and he still starts every canvas on site. Emerging from a strict classical European approach to objective painting, Isaacs is a Maine artist and educator who attended both the Slade School of Art in London and at the Rhode Island School of Design.

TONGUE IN CHEEK: THE SURREAL ART OF HO BARON

6/3/2016 - 7/10/2016

ARTIST RECEPTION

6/4/2016 • Saturday | 7 PM

► Baron's intricate sculptural caricatures are satiric and fantastic. He places his work in the surrealist and visionary art movements. His process is intuitive, with archetypal and anthropomorphic imagery. Baron was born in Chicago in 1941 and raised in El Paso, Texas on the Mexican border. He has sculpted for some 35 years and has created more than 200 narrative bronze and cast stone figures. His recently published monograph on his sculpture is entitled "Gods for Future Religions."

FANTASY & REALITY

7/15/2016 - 8/21/2016

ARTIST RECEPTION

7/16/2016 Saturday | 7 PM

► Whether by immersing ourselves in the virtual worlds of computer games or those of our daydreams and nightmares, we encounter realms of fantasy regularly in our daily lives. This exhibit explores artists who make ordinary objects extraordinary, invent their own games, defy logic and the rules of nature, and explore both utopian and dystopian worlds. This is an open exhibit. For more information about our call for entries, please visit our website georgetownartcentertx.org.

*Deadline for submission is May 15, 2016TEXAS METALSMITHS:*HARLAN W. BUTT & ANNA M. LOPEZ

PUBLIC ART

arts.georgetown.org/art/public-art/

Georgetown has public art around the Square, in parks, on Southwestern University's campus, at the public library, and elsewhere. Art sparks wonder and delight when we find it in the places we work, live, and visit.

Public art can be experienced by people going about their daily lives regardless of age, income, or education. It may be permanent or temporary, large or small, physical or digital. It is often outdoors but can also be in public buildings. Wherever it is, it enlivens the environment.

It is also a crucial element in community building. Murals become a backdrop for smartphone photos by residents and visitors, and the work and people's interaction with it are shared with the world through social media; sculptures and paintings commemorate and remind us about people or events from the city's past, shaping our identity as a community. Public art can raise social issues and spark conversations.

Georgetown's public art is increasing. The City of Georgetown Arts & Culture Board borrows, purchases, or commissions murals, sculptures, paintings, and even utility box wraps. The meaning and awareness of place and space created by these works extend the creative experience that visitors to the City enjoy.

LIVE MUSIC

arts.georgetown.org

Whether your passion is chamber concerts, symphony performances, piano recitals, jazz on the downtown Square, folk in a local winery, '40s tunes in a restaurant, or rock in a bar, there is something in Georgetown. Finding our venues is easy, and parking is free; many times, the events themselves are free, as well.

Opportunities to experience classical music are surprisingly frequent, and many performances feature world class performers. These include the Georgetown Symphony Society's annual Van Cliburn recital, this year featuring Cliburn International Competition finalist Nikita Mndoyants. The society also brings the Round Rock Symphony, directed by Stefan Sanders, and the Temple Symphony Orchestra, directed by Thomas Fairlie, to our Klett Center for the Performing Arts for a season of six concerts spanning September to May. Southwestern University holds multiple guest artist recitals and concerts and faculty recitals, as well as performances by student wind ensemble and orchestra, opera theatre, and chorale.

The Georgetown Festival of the Arts organizes a Classic Chamber Concert series and also creates a wonderful week of concerts, lectures, a film showing, and more each year, including a free concert in San Gabriel Park that is followed by fireworks. The theme for the June 2016 festival will be "Fire and Ice: A Festival of Music by Grieg, Sibelius, Nielsen and Other Nordic Masters."

In Georgetown, free concerts are a regular occurrence, so you can be spontaneous and frugal but still enjoy excellent performances of varied kinds of music. Southwestern University's concerts are all free, and enjoying a concert on the beautiful campus is a great way to spend an evening. Southwestern's ensembles include those listed above as well as a jazz band that really cooks. And every month, there is a free concert at the Georgetown Public Library: Live Music at the Library is at 2 pm the third Sunday of each month and ranges from jazz bands to classical soloists and ensembles to folk, bluegrass, and world music.

Many of the city's wineries, restaurants and bars feature live music, as well. To find these events, look at the City's Entertainment Calendar at visitgeorgetown.com.
